FIREWORKS TONIGHT

The annual fireworks display sponsored by the Waveland Civic Association in cooperation with the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors is scheduled today at 8:30 p.m. The site for the display which is free to the public is the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier near Coleman Avenue in Waveland.

TELETHON STARTS TODAY

The Muscular Dystrophy Telethon will again be sponsored by the Waveland Civic Association during the Labor Day Weekend. Jimmy Lagasse Jr., telethon co-ordinator, reports pledges will be taken from Sunday at 5 p.m. until 6 p.m. Labor Day. Persons interested in making pledges can call 467-4134 or 467-9248.

CAMPAIGN DINNER

Haley Barbour, Republican candidate for United States Senate, will be featured speaker at a campaign dinner at Diamondhead Friday at 8 p.m.

Barbour, a 34-year-old attorney from Yazoo City, will be accompanied by his wife, Marsha.

Tickets are available from the dinner chairman, Evelyn McPhail, at $25 per person. Call 255-7905 or 255-1421.

HOLIDAY CLOSING

The National Space Technology Laboratories Visitors Center will be closed Monday in observance of the Labor Day holiday.

The center will reopen during its regular hours from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Absentee voting deadline told

Deadline for absentee voting in the Hancock County School District superintendent's race is 5 p.m. Thursday.

Absentee voting in the Sept. 11 special election began Wednesday after the Hancock County Election Commission certified five candidates as qualified to seek the position.

The candidates in the primary are Terrell H. Randolph, Roger James, Eugene Ladner, Barney Necaise and K. G. McCarty.

Registrar of Voters Henry Otis said absentee ballots must be cast at the Circuit Court clerk's office in the county courthouse in Bay St. Louis.

Otis, who is also the Circuit Court clerk, noted only residents of the Hancock County School District may vote in the superintendent's election.

Hancock County voters living in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland or Picayune Municipal School Districts are not eligible to cast ballots in Saturday's contest, Otis explained.

Absentee voting will continue following the Labor Day holiday from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday.

Louisiana oyster fishing license deadline reported

Oyster fishermen planning to use Louisiana waters this year must purchase their vessel licenses and dredge licenses before Saturday.

Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Secretary Jesse J. Guidry said that two recently passed Louisiana laws require that the licenses be sold by the department only during the period of Aug. 1 through Sept. 10.

Fees for the licenses remain the same as last year.

Some exceptions to the laws do exist, according to Guidry. In the cases of a transfer of ownership of a boat because of a death of a captain and newly built boats, special consideration is given in obtaining licenses.

Guidry said that after the Sept. 10 deadline, oyster licenses will not be available until Aug. 1, 1983.

For more information on the licenses call McFadden Duffy at 504-343-1065.

ACCIDENT VICTIM—Grimacing in pain and lying on a sidewalk Friday afternoon in the 500 block of Main Street as Bay St. Louis Fire and Police Department personnel and a bystander administer first aid just before Mobile Medic emergency medical technicians arrive is Samuel Jordan, 20, of 103 Washington St. of that city just after the pickup he was driving struck a utility pole. Investigator Ben Palmer of the police department Saturday said Jordan was treated for multiple injuries and released from Hancock General Hospital Friday evening. Traffic was blocked on Main near US-90 for about 20 minutes while Jordan was treated and the totally demolished truck. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

MAIN STREET CRASH—A telephone and electrical wire pole is splintered and a pickup truck is totally destroyed resulting when the vehicle, driven by Samuel Jordan, 20, of 103 Washington St. in Bay St. Louis, at about 2 p.m. Friday struck the pole located in the 500 block of Main Street in that city. Investigator Ben Palmer of the Bay Police Department Saturday said an accident report by Patrolmen Bryan Barnes and Allan Bowers and Auxiliary Lt. Bob Welz states Jordan apparently lost control of the pickup while traveling east on the street and struck the pole. Palmer added the accident is under investigation by the department. ## Burglars beware

Bay citizens forming neighborhood watch

By BRENT MACEY
Burglars Beware! Citizens on Sunset Boulevard, Athletic Drive, Highland Drive, Esplanade Street and Beyer Drive in Bay St. Louis are organizing a neighborhood watch for protection against crime.

Nancy Lewis, organizer of the program, noted a meeting was conducted last Wednesday at the Gulf National Bank in Bay St. Louis.

"There was standing room only," she said.

She added the purpose of the watch is to deter crime by having neighbors ban together and be on the alert for suspicious persons in the community.

If a suspect is spotted then the police are called.

"The National Sheriff's Association started neighborhood watches in 1972 because the rate of crime went up so much in subdivisions and rural areas that they (law enforcement officials) couldn't be everywhere at once," she said.

Lewis estimated some 100 to 120 houses comprise the area where the program is being established.

At the Wednesday meeting she said the group discussed purchasing decals which will be stuck on doors of participating members, and purchasing street signs which will read "This area is protected by a neighborhood watch." The group has already elected street captains.

Street captains at this point are responsible for contacting neighbors to raise money for the decals and signs.

"The signs will let people know the area is being watched and will hopefully deter crime," she said.

Lewis estimated some $3 will be needed per household to buy the signs and decals.

The group is also considering purchasing a magnetic sign which can be stuck on cars.

NSTL to host administrators

The National Space Technology Laboratories will be the location of a Thursday quarterly meeting of the Mississippi Coast Association of Federal Administrators.

According to Jerry Haas, association president and NSTL manager, the meeting will begin at noon in the Galveston Room, Bldg. 1100.

David Caldwell, director of the U.S. Office of Personnel Management's regional office in Atlanta, will give the MOAFA members an update on key personnel management concerns.

Members will also hear a brief report by Ginny McCormack of the General

Bay beach front ordinance discussed in secret session

By BRENT MACEY

Members of the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission met behind closed doors Thursday night, fearing members of the press would inhibit commissioners' attempts to formulate a beach front ordinance for the city.

C.C. McDonald, commission president, stated board members would be "inhibited from speaking their mind" if the press was present at the Thursday meeting.

The closed session was apparently in direct violation of Mississippi's Open Meetings Law which provides 11 specific reasons why public bodies may go behind closed doors.

"The possibility that a member of a public body may become inhibited if the press is present at meetings is not listed as a reason why a public body can meet behind closed doors."

Thursday's action by the commission is similar to a May 25 Vicksburg Planning and Zoning Commission closed meeting which resulted in a civil suit being filed against the planning board by a newspaper in that city.

McDonald claimed the Bay commission would not take any action and stated the meeting was actually a workshop session.

However, he stated the commission would "hopefully come to a consensus" and develop an ordinance which can be voted on at the next regular meeting of the commission which is slated Sept. 14 at 7 p.m.

Although McDonald claimed the meeting was a "workshop session," Mississippi law states the term meeting "shall mean an assemblage of members of a public body at which official acts may be taken upon a matter over which the public body has supervision, control, or advisory power."

The Planning and Zoning Commission was requested by the city council last year to develop and recommend a beach front ordinance for the city.

No ordinance currently exists which dictates where construction, if any, will be allowed on beach front property. A moratorium forbidding any construction on beach property was adopted by the council last year.

When asked why the commission could not discuss the issue at a regular open meeting, McDonald said, too much of the commission's time is taken up with other regular business on its agenda to allow the commission time needed to focus its entire attention on the beach front property ordinance.

Commissioner Bill Tate emphatically requested the press be banned from the secret session.

Other commission members attending the workshop meeting included Ann Williamson, August Scaffidi and Herbert Dubuisson.

Jody Gex, city attorney, was not present at the meeting.

sent at the meeting.

Charlie Mitchell, editor of the Vicksburg Post, Friday said the local Chancery Court ruled in favor of the newspaper and granted a permanent injunction against members of the Vicksburg commission forbidding the group from conducting meetings behind closed doors.

The court also ruled transcripts of the meeting be handed over to the newspaper.

Mitchell said the zoning board was discussing possible annexation of areas outside the city and refused to allow the press or public to attend.

He said the board based the reason for its secret session on a section of Mississippi law which allows public bodies to meet in private if they are discussing prospective litigation.

However Mitchell stated Ninth District Chancery Judge Willard McIlwain ruled "litigation had to be eminent" before public bodies could meet in executive session.

That was not the case in respect to the Vicksburg planning board, Mitchell said. He noted the board's attorney was not even present at the meeting.

Mitchell also reported the judge said public officials who are inhibited in their duties by a member of the press being present at a meeting is "unfortunate and maybe inconvenient" but should be considered by those officials before accepting a position on a public body.

The case has been appealed to the State Supreme Court, Mitchell noted.

However, he said a supreme court justice upheld the McIlwain ruling when the board requested the supreme court rule on whether the planning board could withhold all transcripts of the meeting until the case was heard by the supreme court.

Nepotism fears delay two teacher hirings by county school board

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County School Board Saturday morning could not officially rehire two substitute teachers because they are relatives of Board Member Louie Ladner and two board members did not attend a meeting to provide a majority board vote.

Woodrow Ladner, board vice president and meeting chairman, said Monvel Cuevas, board president, and George Ladner, a board member, who did not attend the meeting should be present for personnel hirings based on district policy.

When the matter of rehiring Hancock North Central High School substitute teachers was first discussed in the meeting, Woodrow and Louie Ladner suggested the hirings be tabled until the board's recess meeting slated for 9 a.m. Friday so they could have more time to clarify their blood relationships to some of the teachers.

But later in the meeting, William Haddock, interim superintendent of education, requested the board rehire the substitutes since they all have been paid for their first week of work.

Woodrow Ladner again inspected the list and determined none of the substitutes are closely related to him.

He confirmed state nepotism laws would not allow board members to hire any first cousin or closer relative.

Louie Ladner reported substitutes Mona and Margaret Ladner could be close family relatives.

Woodrow Ladner said Mona Ladner is Louie Ladner's wife's first cousin, but was "not sure" how Margaret Ladner might be related to him.

So, based on board policy which requires a majority number of board members to vote affirmatively to hire employees and to avoid nepotism charges, the board voted to rehire all

Chamber to hear World's Fair exec

Winston Lill, community relations manager for Louisiana World Exposition, Inc., will be the guest speaker at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Morning Edition Thursday, Sept. 16, beginning at 7:30 a.m. at The Landmark, 210 Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

Louisiana World Exposition, Inc. is the private, non-profit corporation which will stage the 1984 World's Fair in New Orleans.

Lill, a native of New Orleans, was appointed by New Orleans Mayor Moon Landrieu in 1974 to staff the project on a part-time basis. In 1978, he became a consultant with the exposition group and, when offices were opened officially in early 1980, he was named the first staff man.

He graduated from Tulane University, and in 1964 was appointed by New Orleans Mayor Chep Morrison as asstant director of public relations for the city. Later he was appointed director and in 1981 accompanied Ambassador Morrison to Washington, D.C. as his special assistant in the Department of State and as a member of the United States Delegation to the Organization of American States.

Lill was named executive vice president of W.R. Smolkin and Associates, marketing consultants in the field of housing in 1964 and one year later became executive director of the newly created Community Action Agency in New Orleans, a post he held until 1969 when he joined the Fitzgerald Advertising Agency as an account executive.

All Chamber members and their guests are invited to attend this meeting, which is being provided courtesy of First Bienville Finance.

Hirings

the substitute teachers except Mona and Margaret Ladner.

Regarding George Ladner, Board Attorney Joseph Gex reported the board member is in Lake Forest Hospital in Metairie, La. recuperating from back surgery for two ruptured disks.

Gex said it was feared Ladner might lose feeling in one or both legs, but doctors now believe the board member will regain full use of his legs.

The board also discussed its business machine maintenance agreements with various companies.

A Mr. Wallace of Wallace Business Machines of Gulfport attended the meeting to report he thought his contract called for repairs for all machines in the district.

Haddock reported Billy Sills, former superintendent of education, had sent letters to all bidders saying their quotations had been accepted, but did not include the stipulation that only portions of the bids were oked.

The board annually accepts certain service bids, but evidently only purchases the low quotations from several bidders for related services.

Wallace said he annually stores typewriters and copying machines at his office for the district so the equipment is not stolen from the schools during the summer.

He reported his company has already cleaned the machines, as performed in the past, and requested payment for the service.

Wallace also reported four typewriters at HNC need repair and based on their contract with the district, must be repaired.

The board also heard a report from a Gulfview Elementary School patron that several Waveland children are attending the school and causing overcrowded conditions.

Woodrow Ladner also noted several children attending HNC are Harrison County residents.

Four men jailed in BaySide heists

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Four men are being held in Hancock County Jail in Bay St. Louis in lieu of $20,000 bond for multiple burglary charges resulting from recent BaySide Park home break-ins.

Investigator Delbert Seay of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department Friday afternoon reported the four are scheduled for a Sept. 29 hearing at 6 p.m. before Justice Court Judge Lee Klein for the charges.

James Miller Jr., 19; Timothy S. Adams, 22; and Michael J. Pitre, 28, all of Houma, La.; and David S. Powell, 28, of Gulfport, all are in jail, the investigator said.

Seay noted Miller and Adams are charged with three counts of burglary and the other two face four charges each.

The investigator explained Powell and Pitre apparently burglarized the home of Thomas Mayne on Union Street in BaySide on Aug. 17 when a 22 caliber rifle and pistol valued at about $300 were stolen.

All four men then apparently burglarized the same residence Wednesday and allegedly stole a movie projector, watches, jewelry and some cash, Seay said.

The four also on Wednesday apparently stole a television and household appliances from the summer residence of Floyd L. Purvis on Union Street, the investigator reported.

In addition, the four also apparently broke into the summer residence of Richard W. Hughes Jr. on Sundflower Street in BaySide, Seay said.

The investigator noted the extent of the thefts at the Hughes and Purvis residences are not known because the former home owner lives in New Orleans and the other man lives in Purvis, both have not confirmed what was taken from the homes as of yet.

"We recovered numerous items, but we won't know what was stolen until we receive a report from the two home owners," Seay stated.

"The four apparently had taken the stuff and hid it in a wooded area when they discovered we (the sheriff's department) were on to them," Seay revealed.

"We arrested one of the alleged thieves at a residence and some more of them in an automobile on Lower Bay Road," he said.

"Our investigation has apparently linked the four to the burglaries, but this is still under investigation. Some items reported stolen have not yet been recovered," he added.

Deputies Glen Jackson and Strong assisted Seay in the arrests.

News Brief

END OF THE WORLD

"The Doomsayers," an award-winning documentary, explores the possible end of Western civilization at 9 p.m., Wednesday, September 8, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

The program considers the end of civilization through the eyes of Malcolm Muggeridge, British journalist and social critic; Adam Smith, author and financier; Edward Cornish, president of the World Future Society; Admiral Gene LaRocque, president of the Hope of the Future, or will it be the cause of the ultimate undoing?

Responsibility; Howard Ruff, author; and Fritzof Capra, physicist; and others.

"The Doomsayers" details not only the possible routes to disaster—economic, collapse, nuclear war, overpopulation and environmental catastrophe—but also asks hard questions that underlie present dilemmas: Can technology really rescue Western civilization? Is the humanist dream with its inherent utopian bias really the hope of the future, or will it be the cause of the ultimate undoing?

Correction

In other business, the board voted to notify the James Ingersoll family to repair its water line which crosses the Gulfview campus behind the school gymnasium or the line will be shut off. Haddock reported the leaking line is forming a pool which could flood the gym.

He explained the line runs from a well at one house and across the campus to another home.

A report in the Sunday, Aug. 29 issue of The Sea Coast Echo should have listed the Waveland Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints' open house for Saturday, Sept. 11 at 7 p.m.

The Echo apologizes for the error and any inconvenience it may have caused.

County Agent's Notes

by John Smith

Overseeded bahiagrass and bermudagrass pastures need special management to utilize the forage produced on straight ryegrass or ryegrass-clover plantings and not penalize early summer production of the permanent grass according to John W. Smith, County Agent.

Overseeded ryegrass is growing well with the recent unseasonably warm weather. As these pastures produce more forage than cattle grazing these fields can consume, add more cattle.

It is very important that these overseeded areas not be allowed to grow up. If they are kept grazed close, the bahiagrass and bermudagrass will start to grow along with the ryegrass. By concentrating cattle on the overseeded area some of the grazing planted on a prepared seedbed can be saved for hay. Quality of ryegrass for hay drops quickly as it matures.

While cattle are grazing out these overseeded areas, summer grass on other pastures can get started and be well established by early May when ryegrass usually fades out.

Cattle can then be rotated to allow the overseeded bahiagrass and bermudagrass pastures to come back. All surplus bahiagrass or bermudagrass should be harvested for hay as the first growth in the spring is the highest quality forage produced during the season.

If pastures that were overseeded must be harvested for hay, cut this ryegrass as early as possible to reduce the competition to the permanent grass. The tonnage of early cut ryegrass may be less but the quality will be more than make up the difference.

Where clovers are growing in combination with the overseeded ryegrass, heavy grazing pressure should be continued to maintain good grass-clover balance.

If you allow clovers to grow up to produce a seed crop, the permanent summer grass can be severely set back and a tremendous amount of quality forage can be lost. Before allowing clovers to grow up and produce seed, consider the value of this forage for grazing or hay against the cost of reseeding.

Where reseeding is desired, the grazing pressure on crimson and ball clover should be reduced in late April.

Subclover can be grazed heavily throughout spring as it will seed best when closely grazed. Graze Yuchi arrowleaf into late May and Meechee arrowleaf into June where reseeding is desired.

To allow for reseeding on all annual clovers except sub, the cattle will need to be removed or grazing pressure greatly reduced between flowering and seed production.

The red clover varieties being planted are short term perennials, and often need some additional seed added the following fall after original seeding as the stand will not survive late summer drought most years.

Red clover will volunteer from seed if old plants are allowed to seed the second year. Graze red clovers and ryegrass until the ryegrass fades out, then pull cattle off and allow regrowth for grazing or hay. When red clover can usually be expected for June grazing.

As the cost of fertilizer continues to increase, we cannot continue the luxury of a scattergun approach to pasture fertilization. The soil testing of permanent pastures, then fertilizing according to the specific needs of the soil, for the forage crop being grown, is the surest way a profit can be expected from each dollar spent on fertilizer.

Along with proper fertilization and timely rotation, weeds must be controlled by spraying and/or clipping. We cannot afford to fertilize pastures if weeds are not controlled.

Research has shown that most pasture weeds contain twice the nitrogen, twice the phosphorus and three times the potassium as desirable forages. Many of these common weeds in pastures have the potential for producing nitrate poisoning, other toxicity problems plus off flavors in meat and milk.

WHAT'S IN THE BAG?
If you've bought commercial fertilizer lately, you may have noticed three numbers on the bag. Those numbers tell you the kind and strength of the fertilizer material. All fertilizers are not created equal. The first number tells you the percent nitrogen in the bag. The second number indicates the percent phosphate and the third number shows the percent potassium, or potash.

One common fertilizer is 13-13-13, or triple 13. The numbers tell you that the fertilizer contains 13 percent of each of the three elements. All fertilizers are not the same strength, and many kinds of fertilizer materials are available.

For example, 0-24-24 fertilizer has no nitrogen at all, but contains equal amounts of phosphate and potash. Another mixture known as super phosphate (0-20-0) has no nitrogen or potash.

It's important to understand the numbers to choose the right fertilizer for the crop. Some crops take more fertilizer than others, and they may need different amounts of each element during different parts of the season.

All lawngresses, for example, can use high amounts of nitrogen during the growing season. But, unless you plant winter grass, nitrogen shouldn't be applied after September because cold weather may damage the new growth.

There are other factors you should consider in fertilizing crops and lawns. For more information, contact the County Extension Office.

It was sure nice to walk outside and greet the cool breeze early Saturday morning.

Even with the temperature at 70 degrees, it was a lot cooler than the 95's we've been reaching in recent weeks.

There sure is a need for some moisture and we are sure the forestry people are waiting for the rains to come.

We are not getting into the forest fire season and the dry woods does not help matters.

We tend to see many property owners burning trash and lots and would like to request they take extreme caution.

As you know, a person can be held responsible for the damages caused by fires that get away from them.

If it is necessary for you to burn, make sure you can control it and if inside city limits secure proper permits.

Jimmy Lagasse Jr. told us he was going to bed early last night and get a lot of sleep because he would not be getting any tonight.

He is the president of the Waveland Civic Association and coordinator of the Annual Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon from 5 p.m. today through 6 p.m. Labor Day.

The local group will be seeking pledges for muscular dystrophy and are in need of a lot of residents helping them reach a goal of $7,500.

St. Clare's CYO will be helping by collecting at the annual fireworks extravaganza and also at the stop lights near the two Waveland shopping centers.

Persons interested in helping can contact Jimmy at the Waveland City Hall or call him at 467-4134 or 467-9248 during the telethon.

It takes more than one person to do this project, so we hope many will help in answering the telephones and most important by making a pledge or giving a donation.

Tonight is the night a lot of us kids have been waiting for as it is the Annual Fireworks Extravaganza sponsored by the Waveland Civic Association in cooperation with the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

We have attended these spectaculars over the years and it seems they get better each year.

The fireworks are scheduled for 8:30 p.m. tonight (Sunday) at the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier near Coleman Avenue in Waveland.

Admission is free, so come-one, come-all.

Labor Day weekend still has many hours to go and we hope everyone will try and be careful...

We have had enough accidents already for this Labor Day and there are no need of any more happening.

We for like for everyone to have a good time, but please use extreme caution especially in driving this weekend.

There are some folks who do not realize they have had too much to drink and drive and motorists have to lookout for these drivers.

We know a certain number will be registered at the hotel across the street from our office, at the request of law officers.

It is just too bad the laws doesn't let them keep the drunks longer.

Enjoy yourself Labor Day.

BE A GOOD CITIZEN

Local governments go to the trouble and expense to enact ordinances or laws to control and regulate the disposal of rubbish, trash, paper, cut or fallen leaves, weeds, tree trimmings, etc., generated by its citizens. Are the local ordinances or laws enforced? Look around and judge for yourself.

—The Clean-Up and Beautification Committee of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce

CHIEF FAYARD REMEMBERED—Wendy Koshab reads the inscription on plaque presented to the Hancock County Firemen's Association President Bill Field, right, and Sheriff Ronald Peterson in memory of the late Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard Sr., who was a member of the Hancock County Sheriff's office's arson squad. The plaque was presented with the presentation of two snuffers to be used by the arson squad for the investigation of fires in the county. The snuffers were donated to the sheriff's special group by Coastal Insurance Agency, Farm Bureau Insurance, Hancock Insurance Agency, Kergosien Insurance Agency, State Farm Insurance, Treutel Insurance Agency, and the Gulf Coast Insurance Adjusters. Friloux said the arson squad in Hancock County was the first in the state, adding, "Other county's are now forming arson squads along the guide lines of the one in Hancock". LETTERS TO THE EDITORHancock School Board skirts laws against nepotism.

To the Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTERS OF
HANCOCK COUNTY

So, our schoolboard president did not show nepotism when his son was hired by the schoolboard of Hancock County?

So, the schoolboard did not notice that his salary was the same as that of the previous drafting instructor (who had had 6-7 years experience) at Hancock North Central.

So, the son did not disclose this information to anyone at the schoolboard of office. Ignorance is bliss, is it not? That's alright. Taxes pay for it.

It is nice that we have this system whereby a politician can vote against hiring a relative while the rest of the board votes to hire the "good ole boy" so that the politician's name will not be blemished with the word "nepotism."

I would really love to know just how many relatives were voted into positions with the Hancock County School Board by members of the board who were not related.

I think that this is a really neat idea. You get on the school board by having your relatives vote for you, then you have the board members who are not related to you, vote for your relatives.

Wonder how one can get a good job like this? Bet it helps to have a name like Ladner or Cuevas.

Spiritual counseling not among benefits
at Hancock County Jail

August 31, 1982
To the Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,
In an earlier letter I elaborated on some of the problems at the Hancock County Jail.

Many people sent letters of encouragement and support in response to the article.

I was, however, greatly surprised at the lack of interest shown by the area churches. I have been here for over a month and yet have to see a preacher come in and hold services.

Surely there must be other Christians with spiritual needs here besides me. And what better place than a jail to win converts to Christ?

What better opportunity than this for the church to reach out to people who may well be at a critical crossroads in their lives — especially the young people who go to jail?

The Bible is quite clear on this point — see Matt. 25:36, and I Peter 3:19. What is needed is more community involvement and less apathy.

Respectfully yours,
Bob Stewart
Hancock County Jail

The People's Business

With the November 2 general election still some two months away, support is growing for a major change in the way Mississippi manages its public education program.

On the ballot will be a proposed constitutional amendment which will create an appointed state lay board of education; one which, in turn, would appoint the state's superintendent of education. The nine-member board would represent a cross section of Mississippi's population and would replace the existing ex officio board of education.

As of September 1, a wide representation of Mississippi business and education leaders had voiced their support for the lay school board proposal. More than 20 chambers of commerce — from Long Beach to Water Valley — had endorsed Senate Concurrent Resolution 506, the lay board amendment.

And more than a dozen statewide business and education organizations have voiced their support for the lay board proposal. The list grows each week.

That so many groups would support the lay school board proposition is not surprising. Mississippi remains only one of two states which have an ex officio State Board of Education. And it is one of only three states without a lay board of education.

The Mississippi Economic Council urges that voters add their approval to this growing list of lay school board supporters. And in doing so, they will be casting a clear vote for better schools in Mississippi.

"HEY, PAL! Y'KNOW THAT HOUSE YOU WERE LOOKIN' AT LAST SPRING?"

CONSUMER REPORT

A Service of the Consumer Protection Division of the Office of Bill Allain, Attorney General
P.O. Box 220, Jackson, MS 39205 (601-354-7130)

Hidden behind some of the headlines last week was a variety of information which falls into the category of "good news," including indications of an economic upturn.

The stock market, for example, reached historic new highs, with some experts crediting an emerging confidence in long-term economic recovery. The stock market's progress was overdue and I was pleased to see the action.

Interest rates continued to fall in a systematic way. Major banks have lowered their prime rate to approximately 14 percent, which is far below the 21.5 percent high in January, 1981. Lower interest rates have also been a long time coming and I would like to see the trend continue.

Inflation continues to run at about half of its 1980 rate, a year in which the American people consistently named it as their top worry.

What happened last week with the stock market, interest rates and inflation is important when viewed in connection with Congressional debate on the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982. The media referred to the bill as the "tax bill," but there was a lot more in it than taxes.

1. Unemployment benefits were extended for 10 additional weeks in the wake of the national jobless rate. This has an impact on more than 7,000 Mississippians who need to continue assistance just to help them survive until they can find a job.

2. There was little mention of the fact that the bill carried new cuts in federal spending totaling approximately $17 billion.

For conservatives concerned about huge budget deficits, the cuts were important. But, to get the cuts, we had to accept the tax part of the bill, which will generate about $20 billion in new revenue in fiscal year 1983 and an estimated $98 billion over a three-year period.

Even so, more than three-fourths of the tax cuts enacted in 1981 remain in force, amounting to $335 billion for the American people.

3. Most of the tax law changes were reforms in the system, closing loopholes which have been used by particular groups to their own best advantage. The so-called modified co-insurance is an example of an existing loophole which was closed. Even the insurance industry recognized that it needed to be straightened out.

4. The bill also continued the program of industrial development bonds, a tax-exempt way for states like Mississippi to attract new industrial jobs. Industrial development bonds totaling $700 million were issued last year in Mississippi, creating an estimated 20,000 new manufacturing jobs. Because it has been so beneficial to our state, I stood firm on retaining the program.

Besides the reforms in the bill, there were new taxes on such items as cigarettes, airplane tickets and telephone usage and collection of some taxes now owed under the law.

The bottom line, though, was that the revenue generated by the bill will help get the deficit down and move us further toward a balanced budget and real control of federal spending.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions
About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I read your column every week and wish you could tell me exactly what makes newspaper advertising unique. And do you have any proof?

Dear ADYHAP: For the first part of your question I'll let a list promulgated by Leon Bogart for Advertising Age, 1980, speak for itself:

"Newspapers have inherent features that traditionally set them apart from other media. For example:

"(1) Newspapers are a mass medium, penetrating every segment of society.

"(2) Newspapers are a local medium, concerning a specific geographic area, which is both a market and a community of people sharing common concerns and interests.

"(3) Newspapers are comprehensive in scope, covering an extraordinary variety of topics and interests.

"(4) Newspapers are read selectively as readers search for what is personally interesting and useful.

"(5) Newspapers are timely since they are primarily devoted to news.

"(6) Newspaper readership is concentrated in time. Virtually all the reading of a particular day's paper is done that day.

FRED ASTAIRE

Mississippi ETV will rebroadcast two specials on the film career and on the professional versatility of Fred Astaire at 7 p.m., Sundays, September 5 and 12. The programs were first seen on ETV in March 1980.

"Fred Astaire: Puttin' on His Top Hat" on September 5 presents a chronology of the films of Astaire as well as a look at his early days on Broadway and on London's West End.

"Fred Astaire: Change Partners and Dance" on September 12 examines his career after he left RKO Pictures in 1939 and shows the variety and versatility of the many partners with whom he performed after the celebrated days with Ginger Rogers.

"Puttin' On His Top Hat" covers Astaire's career from the early days with his sister Adele through his heyday at RKO with Ginger Rogers. In addition to film clips, this program presents interviews with many of the persons who worked closely with Astaire.

Offering their comments are Ginger Rogers; Hermes Pan, choreographer and dance director for many of the movies; Hal Borne, Astaire's rehearsal pianist; and Pandro Berman, a producer at RKO.

"Change Partners and Dance" picks up with his career after his departure from RKO. In a scene from MGM's retrospective "That's Entertainment," narrator Gene Kelly says that Astaire could make any partner he danced with look good, just as he introduces a scene of Astaire dancing with a hat rack, making his point very well.

Clips from movies and TV shows recall Astaire dancing with Paulette Goddard, Rita Hayworth, Betty Hutton, Leslie Caron, Audrey Hepburn and Barrie Chase.

p.m., Monday, September 6, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Hosted by John Williams and the Boston Pops Orchestra, she performs selections from Verdi's "Ernani" as well as Puccini's "Un Bel Di Vedremi" from "Madame Butterfly."

The program will be rebroadcast at 6 p.m., Sunday, September 12, on ETV.

THINKING BIG—A Space Shuttle external tank section in a new manufacturing cell dwarfs building inspectors. Martin Marietta Aerospace designed and built these three manufacturing cells which the firm uses to speed construction and lower production costs of the external tanks. The cells are part of the factory complex at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Michoud Assembly Facility in New Orleans, La. The cells use a sophisticated computer controlled system to apply insulation materials to external tank sections, saving time and money compared to earlier application methods. Since 1973, the company has spent more than $50 million on such construction projects at Michoud with an additional $65 million planned through 1984. Martin Marietta manufactures the external tanks under contract to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center.

NSTL completes first Challenger main engine test

National Space Technology Laboratories officials report successful completion of a 1.5-second ignition test Thursday on the first of three Space Shuttle Challenger main engines now at the Hancock County facility.

Engine No. 2012 was fired at 2 p.m. on the A2 Test Stand.

"Preliminary indications are that all objectives were achieved," said Boyce Mix of Diamondhead, space shuttle main engine program resident manager at NSTL for the Marshall Space flight center in Huntsville, Ala. The ignition test is the first of three test firings which will certify the engine's flight capability.

The engine will now be inspected and will later undergo a 120-second calibration test and a 500-second mission duration test to complete its flight acceptance series, Mix noted.

Meanwhile, the second Challenger engine, No. 2011, will be installed on the A1 Test Stand Tuesday.

Engine 2011 is scheduled to begin its three-test acceptance series Sept. 13, to be followed by a similar series on Engine No. 2015.

There's an old song

that advises you to look for the silver lining. Certainly a good piece of advice. But here's some better advice! Save for the silver lining.

Save enough to line those dark clouds. It's easy. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. On the Plan, you set aside a little each payday for Bonds. And that'll chase some gloom away, right off.

But if dark skies should appear, remember, Bonds can help you find the sunny side of life.

REACH OUT AWARD

In football MSU's "Reach Out and Touch Someone" Award goes to Bob Morgan, whose family is located some 2,200 miles away in the Northern California hamlet of Suisun.

The 1982 squad's closest-to-home players include senior cornerback Lawrence Evans, junior quarterback John Bond, and freshman specialist Artie Cosby — all of Starkville.

Morgan, a 5-9, 170-pound soccer-style kicker with 47 successes in 49 extra point tries, has numerous relatives in the Starkville and Sturgis areas.

MSU BASEBALL

More than a few people in this area recall the hurling days of newly-named New York Yankees' pitching coach Sammy Ellis, a former fireball for Mississippi State in 1960 and '61.

Ellis struck out 19 Tulane hitters in one game in '61 after becoming a fanning legend in junior varsity baseball in 1960. He later opted to sign with the Cincinnati Reds prior to the 1962 campaign.

Born in Youngstown, Ohio, and a product of the Birmingham, Ala., sandlots before he signed with MSU's Coach Paul Gregory, the Yanks' coach notched a career record of 63-58 in the major leagues before retiring with arm troubles.

His best season was a 22-10 campaign with the Cincinnati Reds in 1965, and the former Bulldogs' star was coaching in the New York minor league system before receiving the call to the "Big Apple" as mound mentor.

BULLDOG PERCENTAGES

As football kicks off the 1982-83 sports year at Mississippi State, the Bulldogs' intercollegiate athletic teams boast a combined winning percentage of close to .600. The actual figures are 3,321 wins and 2,377 losses (.582).

MSU's grid squad will be looking to even the all-time record at .500 as it approaches the Sept. 4 Tulane game with an 87-year-old record of 351-352-37. Current Head Coach Emory Bellard has greatly aided this rise back to prominence with a 17-7 record since 1980 after the 1975-77 Bulldogs forfeited 19 games.

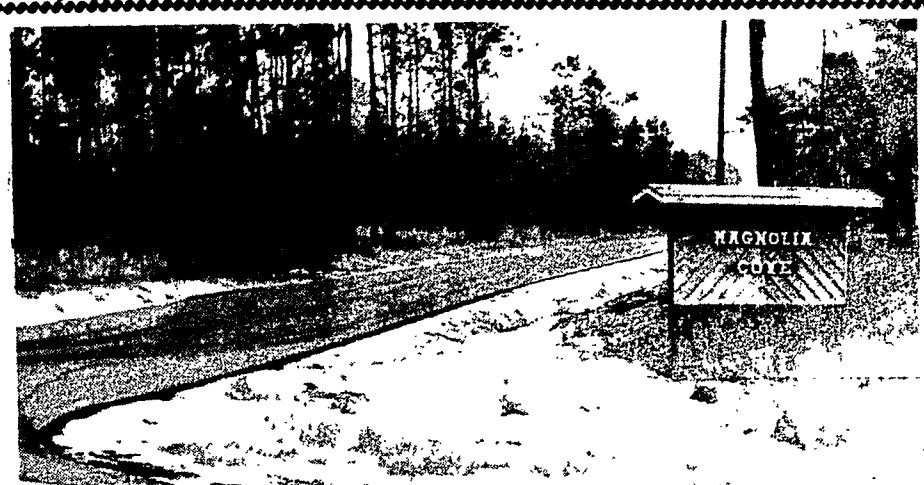

The MSU baseball squad owns the most wins (1,191 since 1885 as the oldest sport against 743 losses) while the MSU tennis squad has the best victory percentage at .653 with 473 dual match victories and just 251 losses since 1907.

Bender, Kergosien marriage announced

Mrs. Phil Joseph Kergosien of Bay St. Louis announces the recent marriage of her daughter, Kathlene Marie Kergosien, to Eric Charles Bender of Houston, Tex. The bride is a daughter of the late Phil Joseph Kergosien. Maternal grandparents of the bride are Mrs. Matthew Ellis of Houston, Tex. and the late Mr. Ellis. Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Horace Kergosien of Bay St. Louis and the late Mr. Kergosien. The groom is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weyer of Kassel, Germany. His paternal grandparents are Paul Albert Bender of Allentown, Pa. and the late Mrs. Bender. The groom is the owner of a Schwinn Cycle Shop and the bride is assistant office manager of Matrix Systems, Inc. On return from a honeymoon to Cancun, Mex. the couple will reside in Houston.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD JOSEPH LADNER JR.

Ladner, Nameth exchange vows

Main Street United Methodist Church was the setting for the August 21 marriage of Elizabeth Sue Nameth and Richard Joseph Ladner Jr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Nameth of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mrs. Kathleen Ladner of Bay St. Louis and Richard J. Ladner Sr. of Destrahan, La.

Rev. Willis Britt officiated at the 11 a.m. double ring ceremony. Decorating the church were standing baskets of white gladioli, carnations, peach hibiscus and greenery with satin ribbon bows and palm greenery.

Musical selections were provided by Mrs. Mary Howard of Bay St. Louis.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white chiffon fashioned with sheer yoke of English net edged with a full ruffle of Wedgewood lace and featuring a high ring collar. Tiny satin bows trimmed the neckline and lace cuffs of the full bishop sleeves. The empire bodice gave way to a flowing skirt of chiffon bordered with a chantilly lace-trimmed ruffle flounce. Lace trimmed ruffles extended from the back of the waist to the hemline of the chapel train.

She wore a wreath of silk flowers with lace-edged fingertip veil of illusion accented by cascading satin streamers, and carried a lace fan decorated with silk orchids, stephanotis, lily-of-the-valley and tiny peach roses.

Ann Nameth of Bay St. Louis attended her sister as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Kimberly Ervin and Lori Van Court of Pass Christian.

The attendants were identically attired in formal gowns of peach tissue taffeta fashioned with ruffled portrait necklines trimmed with taffeta roses, cumberbund waistlines and full gathered skirts.

They carried long stemmed cream white silk roses with baby's breath and satin ribbon streamers.

Lelia Corker of Picayune, daughter of LeAnnice Corker, was flower girl. Joseph Nameth of Picayune, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

John Ciravolo, grandfather of the groom, of New Orleans served as best man.

Groomsmen were Brian Alexander and Kelly Ladner, brother of the groom, both of Bay St. Louis.

The mother of the bride chose for the occasion a formal gown of green chiffon. The groom's mother was attired in a mint green formal gown of silesta with chiffon capelet.

A reception followed the ceremony at the bride's parents' home.

Assisting were Alice Wilhelm of Bay St. Louis; Joycelyn Nameth of Picayune, sister-in-law of the bride; Roberta Van Court of Pass Christian and Necia Asher of Picayune.

For traveling to Las Vegas, Nev. the bride chose a long sleeved white ruffled blouse with Victorian neckline, and pastel plaid skirt, with white accessories and a white vanda orchid corsage.

The couple will reside in Metairie, La.

MR. AND MRS. ERIC CHARLES BENDER

Aden, Fayard wed at First Baptist

Kathleen Marie Fayard became the bride of Michael James Aden August 7 in an 11:30 a.m. ceremony at the First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis, with Rev. McCoy officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald A. Fayard Sr. of Waveland. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Aden of Carriere.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of sheer embroidered lace over bridal taffeta fashioned with Queen Anne neckline accented with lace and seed pearls, fitted waistline and full lace sleeves gathered at the wrist. The bouffant skirt extended to a cathedral train of tiered lace ruffles. Her chapel veil of illusion was held in place by a caplet of lace and pearls.

She carried a bouquet of white silk roses, carnations, trumpet flowers and baby's breath.

Charmaine DeHaan of Waveland, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Karen Fayard of Bay St. Louis and Tammy LaFontaine of Bay St. Louis and Diana Minton of Pearl River, La., all cousins of the bride; and Michelle Thomson of Louisiana, cousin of the groom.

The attendants were attired in formal gowns in rainbow colors, and carried cascades of white daisies and mini-carnations complementing the color of their ensembles. They wore headpieces of matching flowers.

Leticia Giovannone of Bay St. Louis was flower girl. Michael McLain of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Jeff Brady of Carriere served the groom as best man.

Groomsmen were Reginald Fayard Jr. of Waveland, brother of the bride; Andrew Ruhr of Waveland, cousin of the bride; David Aden of Carriere, brother of the groom; and Lennie Messina of New Orleans, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Timothy Fayard of Waveland and Rickey Fayard of Bay St. Louis, cousins of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony at Cafe St. Louis in Bay St. Louis.

Charping named national president of World War I veterans auxiliary

Mrs. Pauline Charping of Waveland has returned from Des Moines, Iowa, where she attended the 30th annual National Convention of Veterans of World War I of the USA and Ladies Auxiliary.

Mrs. Charping was installed as the national president of the auxiliary and is the first Mississippian to be elected national president of any of the Veterans' Service Organizations.

Mrs. Myrtle Page of Pascagoula is the state president of the auxiliary and was accompanied to the convention by Mrs. Lena Dedman of Gulfport. Mrs. Dedman was installed as national Region 5 president. Region 5 is composed of Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi.

These and other delegates from Mississippi brought back many awards presented to them at the convention for their work in different areas of programs handled by the organization.

Each year the national organization presents a check for $1,000 to a research or charitable organization of the choice of the national president. This year Mrs. Charping will present the check to the Mississippi Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Mrs. Charping's choice was influenced by the fact that her only child, Irby Charping Jr., was a victim of this dreaded disease and died at the age of 14.

The Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of World War I, USA does volunteer work in Veterans Hospitals, local hospitals and community service. Their main objective is to work for a pension for the veterans of World War I or their widows.

Dantagnan, Gibbens address B-W Altrusa

The Altrusa Club of Bay St. Louis-Waveland held its monthly dinner meeting at the Cafe St. Louis on August 25. Mrs. Edith Dantagnan and Mrs. Louise Gibbens, members of Altrusa, spoke of their summer travels abroad. Mrs. Dantagnan discussed her participation in the program Elderhostel, a network of colleges and universities in the United States and Europe which provide low-cost, short-term continuing education courses for individuals over 65 years of age. Mrs. Dantagnan's studies took her to England and Ireland. Mrs. Gibbens talked about her role as an advisor of approximately 40 youths who participated in Our Lady of the Gulf's CYO trip to Saltillo, Mexico. For one week the group assisted the missionary and worked with the local villagers. Other business discussed included the upcoming membership luncheon, plans for the November 6 style show and luncheon, and Altrusa's participation in November with the Mothers March sponsored by the March of Dimes.

The September business meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Ruth Johns.

Coast chapter WAC veterans attend national convention

Two members of the Jefferson Davis WAC Veterans Chapter, Viola Hoy and Ernestine McNutt attended the National Convention of WAC Veterans in Ohio. Approximately 350 women veterans from all over the United States attended. Viola Hoy accepted the permanent charter for the Mississippi chapter. The Jefferson Davis Chapter No. 65 is made up of Women's Army Auxiliary Corp Veterans, Women's Army my Corp and members of the Women's Army. The next meeting of the chapter will be September 17 at 7 p.m. in the home of President Marjorie Wingate, 409 Gardenia, Biloxi.

Pass VFW auxiliary plans Ship Island trip for veterans

The ladies auxiliary to Cecil R. Rudock, VFW No. 5931, Pass Christian sponsored a pool tournament for some residents of the VA Medical Center, Gulfport, August 31. There were 12 men from different wards participating including two from Nursing Home Care Unit.

Refreshments were provided for the players and all of Nursing Home Care Unit. There were four winners in the tournament and money was given to the man as prizes.

Four volunteers from the auxiliary were present. Mrs. Agnes Harshberger, Mrs. Evelyn Lizana, Mary Fedele, and Joyce Phillips, auxiliary president and hospital chairman. A monetary gift was also given for NHCU for coffee.

A trip to New Orleans Zoo was sponsored by the post and auxiliary August 27, for the ATU Veterans of Gulfport division. The group was bussed to New Orleans, and stopped by the Mississippi River for a picnic lunch, furnished by the VA Hospital. Volunteers included Mr. and Mrs. Clem Harshberger, Mrs. Evelyn Lizana, and Mr. and Mrs. E.A. Phillips.

Plans are being made to sponsor a boat trip to Ship Island September 23 for some of the veterans of VA Medical Center, Gulfport division.

Library Friends attract 75 to hear architect, judge

By JOE PILET
Coordinator

Friends of the Library
They came. They saw. They heard. And they went away feeling that the first program of the season arranged by Friends of The Library was an enriching experience that left them with a fuller and deeper appreciation of the architectural wealth in Bay St. Louis.

Who came? Some 75 friends and guests of the Friends of The Hancock City-County Library System.

Came where? To the Crawford Memorial Room of the library.

Heard what? Two outstanding and popular Bay St. Louis residents, Judge J. Ruble Griffin and Architect Fred Wagner as they adroitly led their listeners from light banter into a relaxed and low-key lecture and slide program depicting significant architectural structures found in Bay St. Louis.

The meeting took place on Thursday night. It was the first meeting of the season for the newly reorganized group now functioning under the Docent Plan.

In introducing the Docent of the evening the coordinator said: "Judge Griffin was born on the Fourth of July on a farm in Webster County in the Mantee Community (population 200). He signs his name J. Ruble Griffin. I do not know what the J. stands for, but I know that Judge Griffin stands for community spirit and all things designed to improve the quality of life for our citizens."

Architect Wagner, a graduate of Tulane University, used a series of colored slides showing public buildings and private homes in Bay St. Louis which he considers excellent examples of architectural styles in the various periods of development in this charming, old coastal town.

Wagner said, "I have never found a completely satisfying definition of the word 'architecture.' It is, of course, the science of building — an art of construction, it is the art of designing buildings or constructing edifices. It is all of that — and something more. It is a feel for balance and proportion and space. It must answer the needs and fitness and convenience, requirements and purposes for which the structure is designed."

Gifted with faultless diction, Wagner in conversational tone and easy manner guided his audience through architectural terms with which they might be unfamiliar, pointing out decorations, pediments, brackets, pilasters, cornices, moldings, beadings, etc.

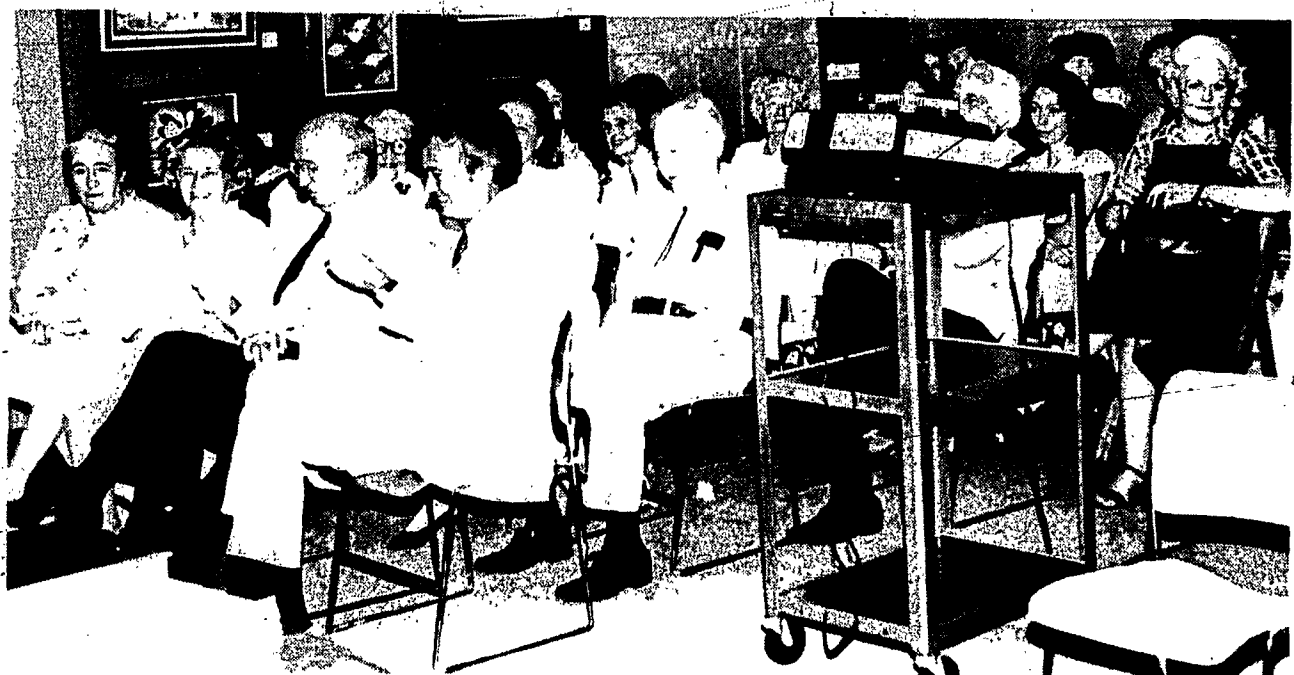

Teaching without seeming to 'preach,' Wagner guided his listeners through periods of Gothic, Romanesque, Victorian, and other influences. He selected examples to best illustrate the many different styles to be found within the city. He lamented the necessity of changes made through the years to some of these otherwise classic structures.

"Have fun," said the coordinator as she invited those present to browse through an array of scrapbooks, to introduce themselves to any persons whom they did not know, to chat with friends of long standing, to enjoy the wall hangings of paintings done by local artist, Nell Ducomb and to gather at the refreshment center where hostess Olive McKenna and her two charming tea girls served a cooling and refreshing punch.

FRIENDS OF LIBRARY MEET—An overflowing group of 'Friends of the Library' gathered Thursday night to hear local architect Fred Wagner lecture on the architectural structures found in Bay St. Louis. Wagner was introduced by Judge J. Ruble Griffin of Bay St. Louis. A refreshment center for the event had Olive McKenna as hostess. (Staff photos by Ellis Cuevas).

Carver named Friends treasurer

By JOE PILET
Coordinator

City-County Library
Former Bay St. Louis mayor Warren Carver has been appointed to serve as treasurer of Friends of The Hancock County Library System.

He replaces Mrs. Viola Cunningham whose resignation for health reasons was accepted with regrets.

"For the convenience of our patrons, membership dues may be paid during regular library hours at the front desk of the library," Carver pointed out.

"A member of the staff has been assigned to issue receipts of payment. I will attend regular meetings which are scheduled for the first Thursday in each month and will accept dues from those who wish to join the group," he continued.

"There will be no treasurer's report given at these meetings, however, newsletters will be mailed periodically to members."

Regular meetings of Friends of The Library are open to all interested persons.

"Programs scheduled throughout the 1982-83 season are varied, educational and are designed to better acquaint the community with the many talented and public spirited people living in Hancock County," Carver added.

Dues of $3 per person or $25 for a life membership are used to cover mailing expenses and incidentals, with surplus funds used to benefit of the library system, he said.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

...come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly — John 10:10

By Sharon Murphy
WAVELAND BAPTIST CHURCH OF CHRIST

The saddest reality in this paradoxical world that we live in is that countless millions will be lost for an eternity because they have either not heard of the Savior Jesus Christ or else have become overly efficient at finding excuses not to let him into their lives.

Louis A. Cheney several years back wrote a very straight-forward book entitled "Who Do You Think You're Kidding? God Is No Fool."

The following is an excerpt from that work:

"Behold, I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me."

"Behold I stand at the door and knock..." "What door?" "Behold I stand at the door and knock..." "What will it cost to let you in?"

"Behold I stand at the door and knock..." "Let me tidy up a bit. I'd be embarrassed to have you see things as they are here, just now."

"Behold I stand at the door and knock..." "I'll be so proud to have you come in."

"Behold I stand at the door and knock..." "It will truly be an honor, a moving experience, to have you in my humble home."

"Behold I stand at the door and knock..." "I want so much for you to come in."

"Behold I stand at the door and knock..." "Please, oh please, let yourself in."

"Behold I stand at the door and knock..."

"Behold I stand..."

"Behold..."

Isn't it amazing just how many excuses people can come up with to keep from making any commitment to God? It is however equally amazing how persistent God is in his knocking.

And yet the reality that each of us must face is that this same one that knocks must also come back in judgment someday. Equally disquieting to those who have not accepted him as Savior and Lord is the fact that our lives are like vapors. Or as Job once said, "My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle."

For all of us there remains a time when we will no longer be able to hear this gentle but consistent knocking. And yet as for now, as long as you have a breath in your lungs it is not too late...to open the door...and let him in.

First Baptist Church to honor Nathan Barber

The Bay St. Louis First Baptist Church will honor its pastor Nathan Barber at a 'Pastor Appreciation Day' luncheon Sunday, Sept. 12.

"This will be an opportunity for each of us to express our appreciation to Nathan and his family for the excellent job they are doing among us," said Lester Gray, deacon.

The luncheon will be a covered dish affair following the regular Sunday morning worship hour at the church on Main Street.

For information on the event, call 467-5175 or 467-4703.

There's An Answer

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE
and RUTH STAFFORD
PEALE

Pangs of guilt

Q. I have pangs of guilt about the way my children live. I have guilt feelings about my 21-year-old daughter who has anorexia and is depressed. I still feel like I have to be her mother, counselor, leaning post, friend—everything I always was.

I want to be relieved of this ever-present guilt feeling over the way my children have turned out. Not one of them will go to church. My husband and I attend regularly, and they were brought up to be good Christians. Now they act like atheists. I find it so hard to cope in today's world.

A. All any parents can do in the rearing of children is simply to do their best, setting before them a good example, seeking to guide them to right thinking and attitudes. If the children repudiate this when they come of age, they are making choices on their own. You need have no guilt feeling about this outcome. Just be available to them always and surround them with your love. Concentrate on filling your own mind with positive, hopeful thoughts. Visualize a good outcome for your children.

We are sending you our booklet "The Rewards of Positive Living" which is free to any reader of this column. Write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Weight goes up

Q. What is the answer for obesity and overweight in the realm of the mental and spiritual? If what we think and believe, instead of what we eat, has an uppermost effect on our physical bodies, then what is the answer to this problem?

In the past four years my weight has gone up drastically and it scares me. I'm only 5'4" tall, but my weight is nearly 200 pounds and I cannot cope with it.

A. A good medical checkup is important to begin with. Then the main way to cope with obesity is to change from a negative to a positive attitude toward the problem. To do that, picture in your mind precisely what you want to look like, the weight you want to be and exactly when you expect to attain that weight.

Affirm, "I can cope. I am coping." Make a habit of this procedure. Then you will be able to regulate food intake to reach your goal.

Treutel hangs library showing

By JOE PILET
Coordinator
City-County Library
Three paintings by Pennie Herring Treutel have been placed on display at the City-County Public Library and may be viewed during library hours through Sept. 30.

Treutel grew up in Tylertown and was encouraged to develop her artistic talents by her father, also an artist.

While living in Bay St. Louis, following her marriage to David Treutel, her art teacher was Lucy Ondrejka whose studio is on Washington Street.

One of the paintings which she calls "The Estapa Building" has unusual charm. The building, a familiar landmark located in the triangle of Dunbar Avenue at

Main Street, was originally a service station and later The Triangle Cafe.

Built many years ago by the late Osborn brothers, Dennis and Edwin, careful workmanship and carpentering skills are evident in this age-old building.

Two additional paintings of French Victorian ladies are excellent studies in yesteryear fashions and life style.

An admirer of the works of Milley, a California artist of prominence, Pennie Treutel said, "Milley is my idol, I just can't see enough of his works, and yes, a study of his paintings greatly influenced my Victorian Ladies' paintings."

The Treutel paintings were selected for display by a committee of Friends of the Library.

Military Mention

SGT. ROBILARD
Staff Sgt. Joet M. Robillard, daughter of Marie Duprat of Bay St. Louis, has participated in an Air Force Strategic Air Command (SAC) exercise called Global Shield 82.

Robillard, an administration specialist with the 351st Field Missile Maintenance Squadron at Whiteman Air Force Base, Mo., joined others from all SAC units in the United States and selected Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard units to take part in command post and field training exercises.

Global Shield 82 was the fourth such exercise held by the command in as many years. It was designed to enhance readiness and the ability of the command to carry out orders which support U.S. national policy, should deterrence fail.

Components of the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps, as well as elements of the Canadian forces, also participated in the exercise.

"The World According to Garp"

The two most recent examples of a novel being made into a film successfully—and by successfully I mean all artistic aspects are left intact—are Mario Puzo's "The Godfather" and James Dickey's "Deliverance."

In both cases the directors, Francis Ford Coppola and John Boorman, respectively, screenwriters and actors were perfectly meshed to produce contemporary film classics.

When John Irving's popular pop novel, "The World According to Garp," began selling countless millions, one could only guess at the time it would take for a producer to translate the million and one ideas that Irving entwined so artfully in his book into a two-hour film.

To be fair the movie has the look of good intentions written all over it. And yet it lacks in almost every category.

The glue, the stuff, that made "The World According to Garp" hang together was Garp himself—a reckless wrestling witty writer.

As played by Robin Williams, under a weight of imposed self-discipline, Garp comes off as a cardboard cutout.

Although he's on the screen for nearly the entire movie, we never really care what happens to Garp or his family (what a departure from the book!).

George Roy Hill has directed some fine films in his life—Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid, The Sting, Slapshot. Hill even undertook the job of directing a film by one of this country's most bizarre writers, Kurt Vonnegut Jr.'s "Slaughterhouse 5."

But the images and phrases that Hill chooses here are confounding, and sometimes outright preposterous.

The acting is definitely uneven as evidenced by the discrepancy between Garp's awfulness and the supporting characters' appeal. Mary Beth Hurt, Glenn Close and John Lithgow are stunning. Especially good is Lithgow, who plays Roberta Muldoon, a former tightend for the Philadelphia Eagles who undergoes a sex-change operation.

Muldoon is the most sympathetic character in the entire film. Caring and concerned, his/her emotion is real and should have been placed more dramatically on the Garp character, since it is Garp that we see extensively.

Steve Teisch, who wrote the comfortable, comedy/drama "Breaking Away," doesn't help much with his dialogue filled with references to events that are never explained.

Sometimes, it would seem, a book doesn't need to be interpreted on film for the simple reason that the images and the philosophy of the book are too complex to be expressed in a reasonable (and economical) length of time.

Garp, it would seem, fits into this mold. Because although its main theme is death and life—specifically in that order—Garp should at least make a small statement at the end of the film similar to the rather large and important statement given at the end of the book.

Instead director Hill gives us a rather vague, ambiguous ending with Garp and Helen flying off into the sunset. Romance in Hollywood is no substitute for reliving the classic on the screen.

"The World According to Garp" is a rather long, boring film from whence its origins this never should have come.

ETV Brief

FARMWEEK RERUNS

The Labor Day "Farmweek" program will be composed of rebroadcasts of some of the most outstanding stories of the award-winning series has produced, according to Tyson Galt, host of the weekly series about Mississippi agriculture.

A unique perspective on the 1981 Delta Agricultural Exposition held in Cleveland will be shown on the program, which will air at 7:30 p.m. Monday, September 6, on Mississippi ETV. Two stories that evening will deal with rabbits—the first about an enterprising man who makes profitable use of rabbit litter, the other about rabbits being raised in Pike County. Still another story will be about rural crime and what is being done about it.

"Farmweek" is a co-production of the Mississippi Center for Educational Television and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.
